Air ducts

At Forstscape Air Conditioning, we install and manufacture air ducts made of the finest galvanized sheet metal according to the standard specifications recommended by the American Society of Air- Conditioning and Refrigeration Engineers, Ashry and according to the specifications recommended by the National Association of Iron Sheet and National Air Conditioning Contractors, which are as follows.

❄️ At Forstscape Air Conditioning, we use air ducts made of Japanese galvanized sheet metal treated against rust and corrosion, as well as insulating the air duct extensions inside the building with fiberglass wool, one inch thick, covered with kg/m density 16 ,aluminum foil.

Air ducts

- ❄️ Insulation of the main air ducts from the inside with a distance of one and a half meters from the beginning of their connection to the fan.
- ❄️ At Forstscape Air Conditioning, we use all necessary hangers using serrated skewers painted against rust, provided that the distance does not exceed two meters between each hanger and another. In large air duct sizes, the distance between each hanger and another is one and a half meters.
- ❄️ Installing flexible joints between the main air ducts and the indoor unit.
- ❄️ Air volume control ducts are placed at the branches and the air duct extensions are isolated outside the building with a glass row.

Air outlets

At Forstscape Air Conditioning, we supply and install all the necessary grill, slot, and bar air outlet openings, as well as return air openings, which can be moved manually according to the plans approved by both parties.

The openings are made of pure, ionized aluminum, provided that the length of the air outlet and air source is decided according to the approved engineering drawings.

Air conditioning projects

At Forstscape Air Conditioning, we use international standards in project design. We also created our own standards in study, design, and implementation through a work team of engineers, technicians, and customer service officials trained at the highest levels.

Therefore, thanks to Allah, the Almighty, we achieve the highest standards of quality and success in the entire standards of our under-work and completed projects.

Air conditioning systems maintenance

Out of our belief at Forstscape Air Conditioning in the saying (prevention is better than cure) and based on our keenness on integration, we provided our work team with a team specialized in preventive maintenance and repair of faults using professional methods and devices and equipment that achieve the optimal quality we desire. The customer service and sales team at Forstscape Air Conditioning implement annual contracts, especially in maintenance and repair work around the clock. This is to ensure the satisfaction of our customers and achieve the quality that we seek and maintain the air conditioning and ventilation systems. At Forstscape Air Conditioning, we also provide services for sterilizing the air from germs and pollutants that may cause diseases, as well as services for cleaning air ducts from dust and fungi that cause respiratory diseases.
